

MAISON GELAS

BAS ARMAGNAC "8 YEAR- OLD"

Maison Gelas Armagnac was established in 1865 and had been at its present location in Vic Fezansac ever since. The family firm is now run by the engaging Philippe Gelas, representing the 4th generation at the helm. Gelas has abandoned the vague, old references such as Réserve or Hors d'Age and Cognac terms such as VSOP, replacing them with more precise statements of age and varietal. In addition to an essential 3 year-old "Selection" and very mellow 8 year-old Bas Armagnac, Gelas offers three extraordinary 100% single varietal Bas Armagnacs: 18 year-old Folle Blanche, 25 year-old Ugni Blanc and 50 year-old Baco. In a nod to tradition, Maison Gelas offers an impressive range of vintage Armagnac, the oldest dating back to 1897. The family owns vineyards but only for the production of still wine. Gelas prefers to buy young Armagnac or grapes for distillation and use his skill and know-how at aging and blending, developed and handed down through 4 generations.

Distillation and Aging: After distillation in a traditional continuous still, the fiery young spirit is put into new casks to mellow for a minimum of 5 years. Philippe Gelas then tastes the spirit to determine the next steps in aging, be it transfer to older barrels or further aging in new oak. For the Gelas 8 year-old, the youngest spirit in the blend is 8 years old. The spirit is reduced with distilled water to 80 proof before bottling.

Tasting Notes: Subtle notes of vanilla, toast and dried fruits. Very round and pleasantly sweet on the palate. Fine balance in the long finish, a flavorful Armagnac with balance and finesse.
